The mother and first teacher of Jesus, Mary, 'kept the faith' through many difficulties, marvelled at God's action in her life and strove to 'make Jesus known and loved'.

The person of Mary is a model for Marist teachers. The College strives to emulate her strength and gentleness.

We see Mary as the quintessential Christian educator.

St Marcellin staff are exemplary and passionate educators who prioritise relationships and connectedness.

Marcellin wanted Marist Schools to be more than communities – he wanted them to be families, where everyone has an honoured place, where relationships are warm and informal, where hospitality is a special feature, and where repair and correction is just, kind and forgiving"
